DONALD '28 BREAKS COURSE RECORD BUT R. P. I. RUNNERS WIN

Swift Sophomore Clips 25 Seconds From Mark Made in 1922

ENGINEERS WIN BY 35-20 SCORE

Five Troy Men Cross Line Between Winner and Trailing Panthers

Running on a slippery road, but under almost perfect weather conditions, Donald '28, broke the record for the Middlebury cross-country course Saturday, in the R. P. I. meet when he finished in 33 minutes, 11 seconds. Although Donald won first place by finishing far in the lead of the next man, Middlebury harriers were defeated 35 to 20, for five Engineers crossed the line before the next Middlebury man finished. Donald's time smashed the record established in 1922 by Rowe of Vermont by 25 seconds. The best previous mark set by a Middlebury harrier was 34:10, made by Cook '24. The course is 5.8 miles long.

Starting at a fast clip, Heath of R. P. I., and Donald of Middlebury, fought out the lead for the first four miles. Then Donald drew in front and, steadily increasing his lead, finished almost 200 yards ahead of Heath. Following the five Engineers who finished next after Donald, Robinson '26 and Dodd '26, placed next for the Blue.

Although the Middlebury team was defeated, all of the men ran in very good form, nearly every man beating his previous record for the course. With the added strength of Arnold '28, who was kept out of the race because of a cold, the Middlebury harriers should do very well against Vermont in the meet on November 14.

The other two men who entered into the scoring for the Blue were Stoughton '27, who finished twelfth and Captain Kelley '26, thirteenth. Lathrop and Clement, the only others who ran for Middlebury finished fourteenth and seventeenth respectively.

The R. P. I. men who scored the points that brought victory to their team were Heath, second, followed by Buckley, Hasbrook, Reynolds and Galbus in the order named.

Since only the first five men to finish for each team enter into the scoring the points were divided as follows:

Middlebury	1	7	8	9	10—35
R. P. I.	2	3	4	5	6—20

Five Elections At Undergrad Meeting

Five important elections took place at the regular meeting of the Undergraduate Association, held last evening in the Old Chapel. Willard C. Whitney and Rollins A. Furbush were elected as junior and sophomore members, respectively, of the Student Council. They fill places made vacant by the failure of former members to return to college this fall. Erwin Hasseltine '27, was elected to a vacancy on the Athletic Council.

Whitney also received another office when by a vote of 50 to 49 he was elected assistant manager of baseball. He is substitute center on the football eleven and a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. Furbush is affiliated with Delta Kappa Epsilon and Hasseltine with Alpha Sigma Phi.

Auburn A. Ross '26, assistant manager of track during the past year, was formally elected to the position of manager. He is a member of Chi Psi.

Special Train to Burlington

In order that all the students may have an opportunity to see the Vermont-Middlebury game at Burlington on Saturday, November 14, a special train is to be operated by the Athletic Association.

Classes will be dismissed early and the train will leave Middlebury at noon, reaching Burlington at one o'clock, giving the student body plenty of time to reach Centennial field before the game starts at two. The time of return, which will be not later than nine o'clock, will be announced later.

Round trip tickets at $1.36 each, which can be bought by either students or townspeople, and student tickets for the game at one dollar each, will be on sale at the office of Graduate Manager Shepardson, 16 Old Chapel, starting at nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

WORLD COURT DRIVE TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Christian Ass'n Local Sponsor In Nation-Wide Student Campaign

During the coming week, Middlebury will swing into line with six hundred and fifty other colleges and universities throughout the country in the nation-wide drive being conducted by the Council of Christian Associations to arouse student interest in the entrance of the United States into the World Court. The local campaign will be under the supervision of the Christian Association and will be conducted by a special committee to be appointed for the purpose.

The objects of the movement are to create a united and active student opinion favorable to the immediate entrance of the United States into the World Court, and to arouse the students of the United States to a more intelligent interest in, and effective influence upon, the determination of the foreign policy of the United States.

Already many colleges have made plans for conferences and discussions. In seventeen conferences held in various parts of the country during the past three weeks, students from many colleges and universities have studied and discussed the World Court.

Plans are being made to hold a powerful intercollegiate World Court Conference at Princeton on December 11 and 12, with students from all over the country taking part. This will immediately precede the Senate debate on the World Court which is set for December 17, when the Swanston Resolution will come up, embodying the terms of participation as approved by President Coolidge and ex-secretary Hughes.

Meanwhile a national World Court student poll will have been taken in six hundred colleges and universities in the nation. This vote will be taken in Middlebury early in December.

The debate to be held against Syracuse on November 20, although not orignially planned as a part of the campaign will give Middlebury students another excellent opportunity to inform themselves on this important issue.

Informal Dance

President and Mrs. Paul D. Moody and Professor and Mrs. Raymond L. Barney chaperoned the informal dance held in the gymnasium Saturday evening. About sixty couples danced to the music furnished by Higgins, '28, piano; Waite, '29, saxophone; Kinne, '28, trombone; Gruggel, '26, banjo; Wilson, '26, drums, and Elmer of East Middlebury, cornet.

FIFTEEN GAMES ON QUINTET'S SCHEDULE

Five to Be Played at Home; Mg'r. Johnson Arranges For New Opponents

Fifteen games are on the basketball schedule for the coming season, as approved by the Athletic Council yesterday and announced by Manager Grant Johnson '26. Five are to be played at home while ten will be on other floors.

The schedule is somewhat less extensive than in the past few years, although it includes games with some of the best quintets among the small colleges of New England and Eastern New York state. Newcomers on the 1925-26 schedule are Amherst, M. A. C., Union, St. Stephen's and Albany Pharmacy.

Only two games will be played in December, the first one not being until late in the month, thus allowing more time for pre-season training than in the past two years. Captain Rice will lead his men onto the floor for the first time on December 18 at Annandale-on-the-Hudson with the St. St. Stephen's quintet as the opponent. If the little New York state college plays basketball with the same agressive spirit that it does football, the game should be a good one. The following day the team meets Albany Pharmacy at Albany before disbanding for the Christmas recess.

Two trips into Massachusetts, one in January to meet Williams and Amherst and another in February to play Boston University, Tufts and M. A. C., are high points on the schedule. The first home game will be against Norwich on January 16. As is usual, the state opponents will be met both on their own floors and in Middlebury. Other home opponents will be Union and New Hampshire.

With only Captain Hollquist lost from last year's squad, and with a great deal of new material available, it is belived the quintet should make a good record. Practice will begin as soon as the football season closes.

The schedule follows:

Dec. 18—St. Stephen's at Annandale, N. Y.
Dec. 19—Albany Pharmacy at Albany.
Jan. 12—Williams at Williamstown.
Jan. 13—Amherst at Amherst.
Jan. 16—Norwich at Middlebury.
Feb. 5—New Hampshire at Middlebury.
Feb. 6—Vermont at Burlington.
Feb. 8—Union at Middlebury.
Feb. 11—Boston University at Boston.
Feb. 12—Tufts at Medford.
Feb. 13—M. A. C. at Amherst.
Feb. 19—Norwich at Northfield.
Feb. 22—St. Michael's at Winooski.
Feb. 26—Vermont at Middlebury.
March 2—St. Michael's at Middlebury.

"Wig and Pen" Is New Dramatic Club Name

For some time it has been the intention of the Dramatic Club to adopt an official name and at the regular meeting of the club on October 29, "The Wig and the Pen" was voted upon and approved by the majority of members. The significance of this name is readily understood: the wig standing for the dramatic productions themselves and the pen symbolizing the intention to present plays written by Middlebury students.

The Middlebury Christian Association is to hold its regular meeting in Hepburn Hall at seven o'clock tonight.

79 MEN PLEDGED TO FRATERNITIES

Large Freshman Class Is Cause of New Record Total

A record number of new men were pledged to the fraternities at the close of the rushing season last Saturday. The six which are members of the Inter-fraternity Council, secured sixty-two freshmen, four sophomores and two juniors. These, together with the eleven men pledged to Delta Upsilon thus far this fall, make a total of seventy-nine pledged to the seven men's Greek letter societies. This exceeds by about twenty all previous pledging records. The unusually large number is accounted for in part by the size of the freshman class, which has a record enrollment of 118.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, with thirteen, has the largest number of pledges. Three others, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Delta Rho, and Beta Kappa, each have twelve. Alpha Sigma Phi has eleven on its pledge list and Chi Psi eight. Fifteen is the maximum number that a fraternity in the Council can take

BLACK PANTHER TO FACE TUFTS NEXT

Jumbo Eleven, Also Handicapped, Has Lost Close Games; Will Try To Even Up For Last Year

The Blue and White of Middlebury will clash with the Brown and Blue of Tufts at Alumni Oval, Medford, on Saturday when the elevens of these two institutions meet in their annual contest, which was won last year by Middlebury.

Tufts has not had an overly auspicious season this year having won but one game, a 7 to 6 victory over the University of Maine in their first contest of the season. Since then they have lost to Norwich 13 to 0, to Connecticut Aggies 3 to 0 and to the University of New Hampshire 9 to 6.

Like Middlebury, the Jumbos have been handicapped by loss of several veterans of other years and this has considerably weakened their lineup so that at no time this season have they presented an especially formidable eleven and it is unlikely that they will be able to make any better showing on Saturday than they have in previous games.

Last year, Dave Morey's team handed a 26 to 7 drubbing to the Jumbos. For two years before that the contest had been exceedingly close, Middlebury winning once 6 to 0 and losing the next year 6 to 3.

No serious injuries were sustained on Saturday so the eleven should be in good shape for its final game before the opening of the State Series.

Visitors Scrappy Eleven Has Aerial Attack That Nearly Wins

BREAKS OF GAME FAVOR MIDDLEBURY

Brosowsky Breaks Through to Spoil Opponents' Chance to Tie Score

One lone point, the result of Captain Potter's kick after touchdown, provided the margin which gave Middlebury a 7 to 6 victory over St. Stephen's on Porter field Saturday. It was the closest game that any Blue team has played in years and it can be truthfully said that the outcome was in doubt until the last whistle blew for on the last play the ball was loose within a yard of the Middlebury goal line and might easily have been converted into a St. Stephen's touchdown had not the Blue recovered. Hinman's superior punting together with the fact that Middlebury was on the lucky end of two or three decisive "breaks" were all that saved the Black Panther from defeat at the hands of the scrappiest and most spirited team that has been on Porter field for some time. The St. Stephen's eleven played an excellent game of football and for a time in the second half completely baffled the home team with a succession of passes. Their kicking was decidedly inferior however, and it was that that spelled their downfall. It was the third time this season that the little New York State college has been on the short end of a 7 to 6 score.

The most critical moment of the game was when St. Stephen's lined up for the try for point after touchdown at the close of the third period. Earlier in the game Middlebury had taken the lead when Gruggel tore off tackle from the twelve yard line to score and Captain Potter made a pretty dropkick for the extra point. With the score 7 to 6 against them St. Stephen's took plenty of time in preparing to kick, for from previous experience they realized the importance of making the point. Deloria, the Sioux Indian fullback, went back to kick but as the ball was passed Brosowsky charged through the line, forcing a hurried kick which was low, hitting Brosowsky's legs and falling to the ground.

The Blue did some of its best work of the season during the first half. Fearing to risk losses on the slippery field, both quarterbacks played safe and invariably called for a kick on the second or third down. Through these tactics Middlebury gained ground for with the exception of one short boot, Hinman was averaging about fifty yards while his opponent was doing miserable work. In the second half the opponents opened up a passing attack which was very successful and which the Blue team seemed unable to check. St. Stephen's scored her one touchdown and threatened at other times with the overhead game. Once in the third period it seemed that Middlebury was to have another score for an attempted pass was knocked down and Potter retrieved the ball and ran forty yards to the goal line. However, the referee ruled that it was an incomplete pass instead of a fumble and the ball was returned to St. Stephen's. Potter starred throughout the game, and along with Brosowsky, did some deadly tackling.

ARE WE INTERESTED?

The attention of the student body is called to the movement, explained elsewhere in our columns, to arouse interest in the question of the United States' entrance to the World Court. This drive, which is being sponsored at Middlebury by the Christian Association, is nation-wide in its extent. Many intercollegiate conferences have been held during the past three weeks to discuss this very vital matter which is to come before the United States Senate next month. The leaders of the drive feel that it will aid in influencing the Senate vote on the question if a strong sentiment in favor of entrance to the court can be developed abong the thousands of college students in the country.

The students of Middlebury will have an excellent opportunity to secure some authoritative information on this important international subject at a minimum of time and effort on their own part. It is probable that at least one or two prominent authorities will be brought here to address the students. Middlebury will debate the question with Syracuse here on November 20. The Campus is planning to run a series of articles by eminent authorities, in order to present both sides of the matter carefully and thoroughly.

If Middlebury students are at all concerned with the important affairs of the nation, they will take an interest in this campaign, will at least attend the lectures and debate in an effort to inform themselves on the matter, and, when the opportunity is given them, will vote intelligently on one of the most important international questions which has come befor the United States since the war.

THE CAMPUS PET

It is quite a common occurrence to see an inquisitive cat or dog taking a bewildered part in our Chapel exercises. Likewise, if you go into the bookstore you will probably find one or two affectionate yellow kittens just yearning to be petted. Our campus is the congregating place for many animals which seem to have adopted us and which we delight in petting.

Have you ever stopped to think that Napoleon who holds sway in the book store or any of the other dumb beasts we see around us are not the only types of campus pets cultivated in this or any other similar institution? There is a certain type of individual who, like the cat, basks in the warmth of the approbation of the crowd. He is so anxious to be considered a good sport and a regular fellow that all traces of his own individuality are lost. He hangs around for the commendation of those who constitute his small world, completely forgetting that although this may be sweet to his ears, it is rarely ever permanently sincere. He is afraid to express his own ideas if they disagree slightly with the current opinion of those he apes. Little by little his personality becomes coated and finally submerged by the stamp of the common herd. What has life to offer to an individual who has no original ideas but does a thing because others do? What more can he expect than a momentary touch, now and then, as fleeting and thoughtless as the touch we accord the campus pets.

Are you here because others are, and do you think as you do because your associates hold the same viewpoint? It is a question. But if you wish to get the most out of college and life in general you cannot afford to be a CAMPUS PET.

TOIL SPOILETH NOT IT

A man, who, was quite a little dissatisfied with the modern generation of young men and who thought of the average college man of today as a pleasure-loving, soft-muscled individual who makes a pretty picture in his floppy flannels and felts, but who is almost utterly lacking in the qualities of real physical ruggedness, backbone in its "spiniest" sense—high moral character, true loyalty and chivalry, once said that he would like to found a real college, one which would turn out men who would claim all the above characteristics. His plan specified that the college was to be situated in a mountainous country and all roads leading thereto were to be dirt roads. Furthermore, it was to be far from any railroad and automobiles were never to be allowed within the college premises; the buildings would be durable—but not modern in regard to appointments; there would be no modern heating or lighting system—no luxuries of any kind; the food would be nourishing and abundant but very plain; football and all sports involving a team would be eliminated and in their stead wrestling and boxing would be introduced—thus all stress would be laid upon individual rather than cooperative prowess. Every man attending this college would be required to perform a certain amount of manual labor each day including all the duties necessary for the operating of the institution such as chopping wood and tilling the soil (for as much as possible of the food supply would be produced by the students themselves). No women would be allowed to attend the college; the tuition would be free and the faculty would be of the very best. The author of this plan for an ideal college states that the men who would choose a place of this character in which to educate themselves would thereby prove themselves to be real "men".

Needless to say, this man's criticism of the present generation is somewhat exagerated and unjust, and his proposed college is extremely radical. Nevertheless there is an element of truth in it which can apply to both men and women. There is today a general tendency to shun hard things—too much satisfaction gained in mediocre accomplishment; too much groping for an easy way to "skin by" and a strange lack of initiative in seizing opportunities for advancement. We are perfectly willing to sit on a silken cushion and have knowledge fed us on silver spoons—but often we don't have a great desire to chew it. We feel inwardly grieved if we are asked to do more than the average amount of work; we often fail to put our spare time to the best advantage; dust collects on the library book-shelves from infrequent use of material contained thereon—and it might be appaling if statistics were kept of the number of times the library is visited for the sheer sake of intellectual curiosity and not merely for the preparation of some assigned lesson.

Perhaps if the acquiring of an education was made more difficult for us, if, as in the proposed ideal college we had to perspire as we learned, we would feel a greater appreciation of the advantages offered us and would take every opportunity to profit by them. M. G.

FROSH FIGHTING FURIOUSLY, FILCH FEDORA FROM FOES

Burroughs '29 Fools Sophs In Annual Scrap By Putting Hat in His Shirt

When the whistle for the first half of the Middlebury-St.Stephen's game had been blown and the teams had withdrawn to their quarters we noticed an awful commotion in the stand. A whole crowd of vagabonds were making a wild rush for the goal posts. Somebody said the little bunch of men at one end of the field were sophomores and the mob at the other end were freshmen and that they were going to scrap for a hat (at least they called it a hat), that was in the middle of the field. We couldn't see why so many men wanted a hat like that but we kept quiet and held our breath so as not to appear ignorant. Pretty soon we heard a shot and a scream and started to look around for the police—and when we looked at the field again there was a fight going on that would make the East Side look like a Sanatarium. We counted twelve pairs of feet that were waving like boy scouts signals and had started to count the thirteenth pair when another gun went off. Then in about two seconds one of the mob came flying out with that hat, and what a hullabloo he made. We asked the person next to us what it was all about and he said that we had just witnessed the annual Middlebury freshman-sopohomore hat-scrop and that the man who had the hat was a freshman; that his name was Donald Burroughs; and that since no sophomore had gotten his hands on the hat the freshman had won. We took this for granted and did not ask any questions—so as not to appear ignorant.

—A Visitor from Vermont.

THE ROMANCERS

Cast

Percinet----------William Donald '28
Sylvette----------Jane French '28
Bergamin----------Richard Gould '28
Pasquinol--------Fred Whittemore '28
Strafolo----------Donald Penn '28

The first play presented on October 29 before "The Wig and Pen" (which is the newly chosen name for the college dramatic club) was "The Romancers", a charming sketch concerned with a young man and woman who consider themselves a second Romeo and Juliet and desire to dissolve the hostility existing between their parents. The feud, however, is only pretense on the part of the fathers to hasten and assure the betrothal of their two romantic children. The setting was the place where the parental estates adjoined with a wall intervening, the stability of which was cleverly accomplished by two men who hid themselves within it. The cast performed very well indeed with no lapses of memory to detract with their laurels. It is hardly necessary to comment on each one separately for no one outdid another and all were highly commendable. Edna Graham '27, the director of this masterpiece, deserves sincere congratulations on the success which her first production achieved.

MIGUEL

Cast

The Lady----------Zella Cole '28
Francesca----------Eva Marshall '28
Miguel----------Helen French '28

"Miguel", presented by Margaret Doty '26, is Spanish in setting and its plot is that of a Spanish lady who reveals to her maid the faithlessness of the man whom the unsophisticated Francesca has fallen in love with. Miss Cole portrayed very completely the aloofness and the purposeful dissimulation of the Spanish mistress. The essence of Miss Marshall's acting was simplicity; she lacked the sophistication in dramatics that Francesca lacked in life. Miss French was as dashing a villain as man could have been, her only feminine attribute being her voice, which even a cold failed to make sufficiently deep. The audience rightfully enjoyed this skillfully assumed masculinity and was pleased with the play as a whole.

POOR MADELINA

Cast

Pierrot (Paulus)---Thomas Mangan '28
Pierrette (Madelina)----------
----------Marguerite Kent '28
Bombo----------John Walker '28

In "Poor Madelina", presented by Mary Barker '26, Pierrot and Pierrette, weary of the Land of Fancy, unlock the door that leads into the world. There they become Paulus and Madalina and they take their first tastes of life, Madelina's being especially bitter. Eventually they return home and realize the joys of the Land of Fancy and understand the pathos of their friend, Bombo, the spirit of the grotesque. The lines of the play are very lovely and it was disappointing to have them marred by forgettings when otherwise Pierrot and Pierrette would have been most satisfactory. We appreciate Bombo, whose role was difficult and well interpreted, and we appreciated also the well planned setting and the play's own inherent delightfulness. I. K. L.

SPERRY OF HARVARD SPEAKS AT VESPERS

"Religion In College" Is Theological School Dean's Topic

Dean Willard A. Sperry of the Harvard Theological School was the Vespers speaker Sunday. His sermon was built around the twelfth chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews and Edmund Burke's statements about society as a contract.

"All society is a contract," declared the speaker, "and the state should not be considered merely a partnership in perishable things. It is a partnership of all sciences, of all virtues and it is a contract between those who are dead, those who are here now and those yet to be born."

"We can easily see that what Edmund Burke says of society is equally true of college. College is not a partnership for amusement or for money but it is a contract in knowledge, art and moral good for all generations. Here we learn the real meaning of the word 'partnership'. College is essentially democratic. It is the one place where a man passes for exactly what he is. We are not interested in long lines of credientials he may bring—we take a man at our own valuation."

"The religion of college students ought not to be different from that of others. We don't want to be highbrow—we want the religion that has held the mass of the people for nearly 2000 years. College makes some aspects of religion harder to accept but it makes others easier. What matters in religion is not the frequent use of the word 'God' but in having a steadfast idea to cling to in times of sorrow."

"Life is sometimes compared to a race. Then college must be a relay race—it requires team work and cannot be won by one alone. We must take long views of what it means to belong to a society like this. Before deciding on any course of action, let us ask ourselves these questions—Does the thing I am planning to do think through or does it end in a blind alley? How would it affect the college? What would be the result if the entire college did the same thing? Is it according to the tradition of the college? It is our business to keep the ship on its course so that someone later will not have to put it back. In other words, we must keep faith with those who have gone and with those to come. In affliction, when everything else goes, we may hold fast to this one idea "we will not break faith". We have this sentiment embodied in our creed in the phrase 'communion of saints' or our partnership in the unbroken succession of good men. The person who lives by this has found God."

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Mu entertained at teas the pledges of the other women's fraternities last week.

On Thursday afternoon the Kappa pledges held their annual tea at their house in South street. Juanita Pritchard '26, poured and Frances Harder '26, assisted in receiving.

The Phi Mu pledges were "at home" on Frdiay. The seniors assisted in serving. Higgins '28, piano, and Druggel '26, banjo, played for dancing.

W. Y. C. A. Holds Party

The Y. W. C. A. held a Hallowe'en party in the Y. W. rooms on the evening of October twenty-seventh. Around a hundred were present, freshmen being in predominance. This class was ushered through the Chamber of Horrors, and the whole group participated in games typical of the day. Cider and doughnuts were served, and dancing ensued. Much credit should be given the Social Committee for the success of the affair.

PETE IS IMPERVIOUS TO PLEAS OF FARRELL

By Pete Prophet '26

I'm surprised at Norwich. She ought to be ashamed of herself for letting that gang up at Burlington put one over on her. Well that's the way it goes.

Numerous persons of note, including Billy Farrell, have pleaded with me to exercise my occult powers on the Middlebury games. I have stoutly refused. I shall continue to refuse. Nothing can swerve me from my purpose. Three years ago when I was a freshman, I once volunteered some advice on how the team should be run. It was spurned. In fact, I was almost insulted by the coach. Now that my great powers are sought, I shall stand firm, even if Middlebury loses every remaining game on the schedule. It's none of my business. However, I predict:

Princeton 10; Harvard 7.
Dartmouth 24; Cornell 13.
Maine 14; Bowdoin 7.
Brown 41; B. U. 0.
Columbia 35; N. Y. U. 7.
Yale 28; Maryland 0.

French Club Holds Hallowe'en Party

All the ghosts and goblins could not wait until October 31 to enjoy their revelry. Most of them appeared a night earlier to bring fun and frolic to the French Chateau. There, on Friday evening, October 30, the halls and rooms were invaded by innumerable spooks, as all the members of Le Circle Francais were disguised.

Charon met all the guests at the door, and upon payment of one cent carried them across the river Styx which led to two rooms adorned with decorations appropriate for Hallowe'en. Here games of all sorts were played. The fact that those masked could not recognize each other furnished much amusement. Clever witches prophesied the fates of those who were interested. Professor Huet played the part of a magician receiving much applause. A skillful act of hypnotism kas displayed. Dancing followed, interrupted by refreshments of cider and doughnuts.

It must be remembered that this attractive Hallowe'en party was conducted in French, a very pleasing way to become acquainted with the social side of French life. There will be other parties in the future for enjoyment and education and if there are still some students who would like to attend they may do so by joining Le Circle Francais. There is always room for new members.

FRESHMEN ELEVEN TACKLES WILLISTON

Journey to Massachusetts to Play Strong Prep School Which Defeated 1928 Team Last Year

Coach Riegelman will take his freshman charges to Massachusetts Saturday in an attempt to take the strong Williston eleven into camp. The class of 1928 was defeated last year 7-0 by the same school, so the cubs are out not only to win on their own account, but determined to even up past scores. The freshmen have a very strong team this year, as demonstrated by their triumph over U. V. M. two weeks ago, but Williston has always had a team noted for its fighting abilities, and their team this year has proved no exception to this rule.

An interesting struggle has developed in the freshman squad between McLaughlin and Hellauer for the position of quarterback and it is undecided as to which will start the game although both men will probably have a chance to play. Otherwise the lineup will be practically that which started the Vermont game. On the whole the battle will be warmly contended and the result is by no means certain, although, judging by the season's records, the freshmen may seen to have a slight advantage over the prep school lads.

In an isolated region, almost inaccessible in winter, this 6500 h.p. hydro-electric plant located on the Deerfield River in New England, starts, protects, and stops itself.

A Self-Starting Power Plant

Dawn—the slumbering city awakens and calls for electric current. Many miles away the call is answered. A penstock opens automatically, releasing impounded waters; a water turbine goes to work, driving a generator; and electric current is soon flowing through wires over the many miles to the city. This plant starts and runs itself.

Power plants with automatic control are now installed on isolated mountain streams. Starting and stopping, generating to a set capacity, shutting down for hot bearings and windings, gauging available water supply, they run themselves with uncanny precision.

Thus another milestone has been reached in the generation of electric power. And with present-day achievements in power transmission, electricity generated anywhere may be applied everywhere.

The non-technical graduate need not know where electricity comes from—nor even how it works. But he should know what electricity can do for him no matter what vocation he selects.

The General Electric Company has developed generating and transmitting equipment step by step with the demand for electric power. Already electricity at 220,000 volts is transmitted over a distance of 270 miles. And G-E engineers, ever looking forward, are now experimenting with voltages exceeding a million.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

Black Panther Scores Victory By Single Point

Middlebury kicked off to open the game and the visitors finding themselves unable to gain on three plays punted to Rice at midfifield. On three plays Hinman gained 15 yards but a fumble gave St. Stephen's the ball on the 30 yard line. Again the Red team kicked and Rice took it on his own 40 yard line. A pass Hinman to Potter gained nine yards but on the fourth down with about a foot to go Rice decided not to take a chance and called a punt. Hinman kicked but the ball went almost straight up in the air and covered only fifteen yards. St. Stephen's made a first down on several plays but was forced to kick to Middlebury's 35 yard marker. A pass Hinman to Potter was good for eight yards and Gruggel made a first down through center. On the next play McNeil fumbled but recovered the ball, losing six yards, Rice lost three yards and Hinman was caught behind the lines for another five yard loss. With about 25 yards to go and fourth down the period ended.

The change of goals gave Hinman the wind and he booted the ball to the visitors 40 yard line. After gaining 15 yards on an end run, St. Stephen's was again forced to punt and it was Middlebury's ball on her own 30 yard line. Hinman again made a beautiful kick, giving the Red team the ball on its own 26 yard line, a good gain on the exchange. After one play St. Stephen's elected to punt but the kick was bad, rolling outisde on the 30 yard line. After three plays with a gain of about five yards, Hinman went back as if to kick. Instead he threw a long pass and it was intercepted on the five yard line. It was a fortunate play for Middlebury for had the pass been incomplete it would have gone to the visitors on the 20 yard line. After losing four yards on a sweeping end run, Deloria punted but Potter hurried him and McNeil took the ball on the 12 yard line. On the first play Gruggel went over for a touchdown and Potter kicked the point that was to win the game. Middlebury again kicked off and a pass was intercepted giving the Blue the ball. After going ten yards the half ended.

Brosowsky again kicked off and the ball was run to the 30 yard line. St. Stephen's returned the kick to the 40 yard line but immediately intercepted a pass. A pass netted the Red 30 yards but with the ball in the shadow of the goal posts the Blue line held on the fourth down broke through and smeared Deloria for a ten yard loss. Hinman punted out but a 15 yard run back put the ball on Middlebury's 40 yard line. A pass gained nine yards and a smash through center made it first down. Several passes were incomplete but finally one was good, bringing the ball to the three yard line. Two plays and it turned into a touchdown. On the try for point Brosowsky broke through and blocked a bad kick, as the quarter ended Middlebury 7, St. Stephen's 6.

The run back of the kickoff gave the Red team the ball on their 40 yard line. A pass gained 20 yards and after two plays Potter picked up what looked like a fumble and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. However, it did not count as it was an incomplete pass, the ball having left the passer's hands. St. Stephen's lost five yards on an exchange of punts. Here the visitors started an offensive that brought them almost to a score. Two plays gained made a first down and three more smashes at the line took the ball nine yards farther. The next play took the ball a few feet for a first down. Two passes gained 17 yards, bringing the ball just 20 yards away from the goal line. Potter nailed a man for a five yard loss on the next play. St. Stephen's tried a 40 yard drop kick in an effort to win but the ball didn't leave the ground and McNeil recovered it on his ten yard line. A five yard penalty took the ball to the five yard line and Whittemore came in to kick out of danger. McLaughlin passed the ball but it hit the goal post and bounced back into his arms as the game ended. It was a lucky play and it ended a hard fought game.

Conway's Dropkick Gives Vt. Win Over Norwich

In the first game of the state series, played before a large crowd at Northfield Saturday, Vermont scored a victory by the close margin of 3 to 0. A dropkick from the 40 yard line by quarterback Conley at the opening of the second quarter gave the Green and Gold its winning points. The game was a close and hard-fought one all the way. Both teams showed a fair offense with the ball in midfield but the defense always stiffened whenever either goal line was threatened. Although the cadet eleven seemed on the whole to be the stronger of the two and had the ball in Vermont territory a great deal of the time, it lacked the punch to score.
